

Złote Tarasy

Złote Tarasy („Golden Terraces“) is an impressive shopping and entertainment complex in the heart of Warsaw (Poland), which opened its doors to shoppers in the spring of 2007. The multi-functional building, which houses 200 shops, bars, restaurants, cinemas and offices, was implemented by ING Real Estates Development in co-operation with commercial property developer Rodamco Europe.

With its sophisticated architecture, the complex offers a business floor space of 225,000 sqm in a uniquely stylishly atmosphere: Złote Tarasy represents a perfect combination of local tradition and modern design. The impressive flowing roof, which resembles a phantastic moon crater and is intended to represent freedom, offers visitors an unobstructed birdseye view of Warsaw.
